Milena Milenković was born on January 2nd 1990. She graduated high school in her home town, Paracin, and studied at the University of Nis, where she graduated with a master's degree in architecture. She lives and works in Belgrade.

She made her first steps in photography in 2015., when she became a member of Photo club Paracin and Photo association of Serbia. She started with portraiture and creative photography, and later captured street scenes and everyday life, but have soon discovered great interest in the human body and the way people react when exposed to the camera. She sees nude photography as a unique collaboration between a model and the photographer, that requires complete trust and mutual understanding. Through nudes she explores emotional liberation that comes with shedding the clothes and renouncing the societal norms.

She participated in over 100 exhibitions in 20 countries in the world, winning more than 65 medals and awards.

In 2018. Photo association of Serbia awarded her with the title "Photographer of the 1st class". In 2020 she received the title "Candidate master of photography", becoming the youngest woman ever to be awarded this title. The same year she was on the list of 10 most successful photographers in Serbia. She received the international title AFIAP in 2021.
